Few employers of labor today - whether businessmen, governments, institutional officials or other job-makers - are without their stories of difficulty in finding men and women to fill positions. This is particularly noticeable in the skilled trades, among office workers, and in most fields of work requiring training or experi-

Yet the practical situation facing prospective employers appears to be contradicted by the federal unemployment figures which hover around the 5 per cent mark a significant decrease from earlier levels but still apparently not reflecting the problem which employers are experiencing. This situation has a two-fold influence on inflation: the scarcity of job applicants tends to raise the wage levels unduly, thus increasing costs of production; and the delay in increasing production while waiting for workers also tends to push prices higher.

The question, of course, is why is there a scarcity of applications for work, in an era of increasing population, extensive education and wider opportunities. One answer lies in the disinclination of many young people today to commit themselves to the routine of regular employment; there is less eagerness to take on a lifetime of work, at least until the world has been explored a little. That philosophical basis is valid to a degree, and is not new except in the extent of its modern application.

But the other side of the coin is that it has become much easier. through the lenience and generosity of today's welfare and unemployment insurance programs, for able men and women to remain outside the working force for far longer periods than ever before. In a sense, the system could be construed as a plan to deter people from working, rather than merely tiding them over a period of need.

That is not to criticize the many cases of genuine hardship or necessity which modern programs help to ameliorate. But it is clear that something has gone awry when unemployment figures and help-wanted figures are simultaneously at high levels.

A recent statement by the federal statistics bureau noted that: "The seasonally adjusted helpwanted index reached a record. level of 186 during the first quarter of 1974. This was 10 per cent above the preceding quarter and 46 per cent above the first quarter of 1973. This was the largest year-to-year increase ever recorded in the 12-year history of the index".

One or two municipalities in this province are already becoming restive under the weight of unemployed residents in an environment of employers looking unsuccessfully for help. They are threatening to close their assistance offices even though most of the money is provincial. The work-for-welfare movement has been tried on previous occasions but without success, due to opposition from governmental sources and the trades

But it seems clear that this whole field is one for investigation' by the new federal government, which at the same time should examine the unemployment insurance system with a view to correcting deficiencies in administering the regulations as well as tightening up the laws governing eligibility. The present situation is unhealthy in that it breeds distrust and cynicism among the taxpayers and others who provide the funds for the system, while at the same time creating on the part of many recipients a poor attitude towards their community responsibilities as well as to the requirements of life itself. The Trudeau government could correct a number of shortcomings in our system by initiating reforms in this department

Time to Come Clean

The provincial government and the city of Victoria have held their heads together long enough without informing the public on plans for the long-neglected legislative precinct. At various times in recent months government officials have dropped hints that they would like a hand in developing the area 'around the Legislature much as the National Capital Commission rules on development around the Parliament buildings in

What kind of development? And when a provincial scheme is revealed by a municipal politician there has obviously been some consultation between the two levels of government. Yet neither Premier Barrett's "open government" or Mayor Pollen's "freedom fighters" have seen fit to inform the citizens of Victoria as to what's going on.

The park-and-ride idea is an imaginative scheme to ease rush-hour traffic in the downtown core. But where will 1,000 civil servants park? Mr. Bawlf refers to the northern perimeter of downtown without giving an exact location or saying what it would do to an cars down in it. Would it not be better to build a number of small parking facilities in order to lessen the local impact?

While the concept of a wellplanned legislative area is desirable the business community and the average citizen have a right to know what their officials are doing. Both levels of government should come-clean now honest than most. It was a stand-off - a holding operation in a time of political uncertainty all over the world. In this sense, it was a realistic conference because it expressed the political realities, which are uncertain at best.

Nations do not commit themselves to fundamental military changes affecting the balance of power in the world, when both politics and technology are in the process of revolutionary change. Nobody knows what inventions and politicians will be influencing the course of events in the next few years.

Henry Kissinger is undoubtedly right in thinking that the pace of nuclear technology is outrunning the pace of political stability or even common sense in the world. "Both sides," he observed, "have to convince their military establishments of the benefit of restraint; and that is not a thought that comes naturally to military people on either side.

Political Weakness

But neither Nixon nor Brezhnev is now strong enough, politically, to compel their military establishments to cut defence budgets or take chances for peace. In a time of political weakness and confusion, the military men and their political allies tend to prevail. This is what -happened in Moscow

In practical terms, Brezhnev could not enter into long-range military agreements with an American president fac ing impeachment. Similarly, Nixon could not, with all his other troubles, agree to concessions of weapons that would infuriate the joint chiefs of staff and their conservative allies in the Congress, whose votes he needs to avoid impeachment and conviction.

So, the summit meeting came out about as expected. If it had been any worse, it would have been a disaster. and if it had been presented as a triumph, it would have been a fraud. Even so, the pretence of success on both sides by Nixon and Brezhnev was a little their dreams of U.S.-Soviet understanding, but believe in believing, and agree to keep talking in the hope that something will turn up. And this is some kind of progress.

What is not clear is why they overstate their limited successes and underestimate their fundamental differences: and, in the process, confuse the American and Soviet peoples. On his way home from Moscow, Nixon stopped in Maine on his way to Key Biscayne, and argued that he was on the way to "permanent" peace, that he and Brezhney were engaged in an "irreversible" process to-

The truth is, that the world needs fundamental changes in the control of military arms, inflation, prices, trade. population, and the environment, but does not the political unity to deal with these fundamental questions. This is Kissinger's main point. He keeps driving for the objective but does not have the nolitical backing to put it over.

It is not only that Nixon and Brezhnev cannot agree about these fundamental international issues. The governments of the Soviet Union and the United States are also divided internally. Secretary of State Kissinger and Secretary of Defence Schlesinger disagree about what should be done on these fundamental strategic questions, but cover up their disagree-

Satisfied Nobody

Brezhnev has the same problem with his military leaders and his Politburo. No wonder, then, that the Moscow summit satisfied nobody. But at least it kept the negotiations going, and raised the posibility of agreements later on in the 70's or 80's.

By that time, of course, as Kissinger implied, the arms race may be beyond control. Also, Kissinger and Brezhnev will undoubtedly then be out of power; but for the present, the main point is clear: Washington and Moscow are still too divided at home and still too suspicious of one another to reach fundamental agreements on a new order in the long-range military accommodation.

This is why the Moscow summit ended in a scoreless tie. Neither Nixon nor Brezhnev could have compelled their military colleagues to make basic strategic changes, even if they had wanted to. The political structure is too weak, the time is not ripe, even if fundamental changes, are overdue. It was a disappointing summit, but at least it reflected the political realities.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Many citizens have expressed concern over this situation, and naturally enquire what is being done about it. It seems timely therefore if I underline our three main sources of revenue:

1. Ticket Sales. We have an outstanding and exciting season commencing on October 6, 1974. We have already sold more than half of the available season tickets. These are good indications that we will experience sold-out houses again next season. But, (and this is an important "but"), sold-out houses represent little more than half of our total needed revenue and this, according to the Association of Canadian Orchestras, is one of the highest selling achievements in Canada. If seats were priced to reflect their true cost there would be howls of anguish throughout the land!

want to go do a day's work for your-self, either way it's OK by me."
"You see," I explained, "when they did the unnecessary engine surgery last year, somebody somehow pulled the car's wires loose and left a nurse, I guess, to just stuff them all back in any old way, so the car has been a nervous wreck ever since, with its headlights flashing on and off for no reason at all, and its horn suddenly blaring at the top of its lungs in the middle of empty boulevards.

TORONTO (CP) — Fred Payne, executive vice-president of the Canadian Shoe Retailers Association, says the price of shoes likely will not drop this fall even if the federal government with-draws the 12-per-cent sales tax on clothing as proposed in the May budget.

The spokesman for the 550member association said in an interview Thursday that removal of the tax would mean "the price of fall shoes will be closer to the price of spring shoes than they would have been otherwise.

"I think it's an over-simplification to say that the price will be reduced by 12 per cent." Mr. Payne said costs of leather, plastics and labor have risen rapidly in recent months and manufac-turers have been raising prices on fall lines.

In one instance, a pair of ladies' shoes which sold for close to $30 in the spring is being offered at a suggested retail price of $35.99, he said.

"Anything other than light sandals" will be affected by price increases which might offset reductions in the tax,

> CANADA POST OFFICE OTTAWA, ONTARIO

DUTIES: The incumbents reporting to the Manager, Philatelic and Related Products and Market Development, will be responsible for developing postage, philatelic and related products to offer increased convenience to postage customers, to stimulate an interest in collecting Canadian stamps, and to generally improve the services offered to customers at post office counters across Canada. The incumbents will also initiate market studies, research customer needs, and recommend policy, guidelines and standards for the effective management of all product programmes.

QUALIFICATIONS: The successful candidates must have a comprehensive knowledge of marketing theory and principles, and experience in product development or standards and specifications analysis. The level of knowledge required is normally acquired through university or college graduation in commerce or business administration with specialization in marketing. The distinction between the two levels of positions will be made on the basis of degree and length of related experience, and candidates for PM-4 positions should have supervisory experience.

LANGUAGE REQUIREMENTS: Knowledge of the English and French language is essential for these positions. Unlimited persons may also apply in this competition. They must, however, indicate in writing, their willingness to undertake continuous language training at public expense for a period of up to twelve months. Such training shall be undertaken immediately at the time of conditional appointment, in or through the Public Service Commission's Language Bureau and at locations specified by the Public Service Commission.

Persons continuously employed in the Public Service of Canada since April 6, 1956, who are unilingual, may also apply, whether or not they submit a statement of willingness to undertake language training.

The Public Service Commission will seek evidence of the likely capacity of unilingual candidates from outside the Public Service to become bilingual.

VSE Planning Stock List Clean-Up

By AL FORREST

The Vancouver Stock Exchange is planning a long-delayed housecleaning of its stock lists after a second ex-change opens in Vancouver

The exchange began a crackdown in March, 1972, under president Thomas Dohm but his massive suspendent and delivers began as the suspendent of the suspendent sions and delistings brought protests from brokers and investors.

This time, under president Cyril White, the companies found to have fallen below full listing requirements will be bounced to the secondary curb exchange which opens next month. White is president of both exchanges

"We have been reluctant to clean house because delistings are not fair to investors," an

MARSEILLES, France (UPI)—A Marseilles judge or-dered prison terms totalling more than 195 years and a fine of $10 million today for 30 persons convicted of operatng the notorious French connection drug ring.

Prosecutors said the ring moved a ton of heroin to the United States before it was smashed, partly through the disclosures by a French singer, Edmond Taillet, 42, who was arrested in New York and named his ac-complices to U.S. police.

Taillet, now free in the United States after serving a shortened sentence there, was sentenced to 16 years at today's Marseilles hearing.

The man named as leader of the network, a Corsican, Jean Baptiste Croce, 52, received the heaviest sentence-

18 years. Joseph Marro, a former Marseilles bar-owner, re-ceived the same sentence in his absence. Police are still tences ranged from 15 years

The accused were ordered opay a total fine of $10 million, the traditional practice sums are rarely collected.

Croce was arrested in January 1973. During hearings since the, prosecutors said he and his accomplices organ-ized the importation of raw drugs from the Middle and Far East, their refining in la-boratories in the Marseilles area and their transport to the United States, often via Canada,

Taillet told police he several times acted as a carrier with heroin concealed in a guitar. Co-operation between American and French narcotics agents led to a widespread crackdown on the drugs business in France last year

Scores of persons were arrested and clandestine laboratories tracked down and closed throughout the south-

All 30 persons brought be-fore the court in Marseilles were found guilty of traffic in dangerous drugs. All were French or Corsican nationality, mostly working out of the multi-national port area.

In several cases, the wives of male prisoners were sentenced along with their hus-bands, including Mrs. Croce

NEW regional information officer for Maritime Command is Major Denny Ryan who succeeds Major Victor Keating, recently posted to Winnipeg. Ryan, a former broadcaster, has served in Cyprus and the Ghaza strip. This is his third posting to Esquimalt.

SPEED LIMIT CUT URGED

VANCOUVER (CP) Canadian speed limit of 55 miles an hour is advocated by George Bradley, president of the British Columbia Automobile Association.

Bradley said in a news lease that the redu United States during the July 4 holiday weekend has proved that motorists driving at 55 miles an hour live longer

"Automobile accident deaths in Canada have been climbing by about 20 per cent a year and account for approximately 42 per cent of all accidental deaths," said Bradley.

With God On Their Side . . .

OTTAWA (CP) - The New Democratic Party lost seats in Monday's election, but in a sense it gained religion and will enter the next Parliament with more clergymen MPs than the three other parties

Election of Rev. Andy Hogan, the first Roman Catholic priest to win a commons seat, gave the NDP three clergymen among the 16 MPs it will have in the next House.

Father Hogan's victory in the Nova Scotia riding of Cape Breton-East Richmond allowed the NDP to widen its representation in religious terms with men of the cloth from three denominations among its ranks.

Former party leader Tommy Douglas and Com-mons veteran Stanley Knowles, are ministers in the Baptist and United churches, respectively.

The two other clergymen in the next House will be from among the 95 Progressive Conservatives elected-United Church minister David Mac-Donald from Egmont riding in Prince Edward Island and Alex Patterson of the Church of the Nazarene, re-elected in Fraser Valley East

Beryl Wants Talks On Sugar Prices

Times News Services

OTTAWA The Food Board has urged the federal government to open negotiations aimed at lowering the tariff on sugar imported from countries outside the Commonwealth.

.In the first of two reports on sugar, the board said Thursday the government should break away from its traditional trade arrangements to ensure future supplies of sugar at reasonable prices.

It called on the government to list permanently the British preferential tariff on sugar and to negotiate for lower with a "most-favored-nation" designation.

Board Chairman Plumptre said the British preferential tariff was eliminated temporarily on sugar until June, 1975, and the most favored-nation tariff was reduced to one cent a pound.

But the one-cent-a-pound tariff could not be further reduced because of trade arrangements with Australia, the Commonwealth Carribean and South Africa which called for a "margin of tariff levels.

Raw Moments of Comedy

There is a fine versatility about the company of students, graduate students and faculty members of UVic theatre department that is providing a summer repertoseason at the campus's Phoenix Theatre.

Second play in the three-part season, Hotel Baltimore, has now joined the well-done comedy, Last of the Red Hot Lovers in alternating performances and it could hardly be more of a contrast.

Hard Questioning Doesn't Budge Dean

WASHINGTON (UPI) Democrats on the House judiciary committee say a day of intensive questioning failed to budge John Dean from his charges of presidential misbehavior and showed him to be a credible witness with a remarkable memory.

Dean, former White House counsel, appeared Thursday, testifying and undergoing questioning for nine hours in

Some House judiciary committee members said the main outline of Dean's Senate testimosy of last summer, linking Nixon to the cover-up, emerged intact despite crosssel, James St. Clair.

"In my opinion he was a damaging witness as far as damaging witness as far as the president is concerned,"

McClory (Rep., Ill.).
Meanwhile millions of words of new documentary evidence and transcripts protray Nixon as a man worried, and at times defiant, as he sought to limit the impact of Watergate on his presidency.

But the raw materials of the House of Representatives impeachment inquiry, spread before the public this week in major disclosures about the case against the president. Seven volumes of data were released Thursday.

The president's fears the inquiry might lead to him were expressed in a March 17, 1973, meeting with Dean. This was four days before the date Nixon has said he first learned the full Watergar story in a meeting with Dean: committee subpoenaed the March 17 tape, but Nixon never relinquished it. Instead, the committee had a tape of a June 4, 1973, conversation between Nixon and Ron Ziegler, his press secretary. In it Nixon tells Ziegler he has just listened to the March 17 tape, and he goes on to review the earlier conversation. According to the committee report, Nixon told Ziegler that on March 17 he had expressed fear that two of his campaign Hugh R. Sloan and Jeb Stuart Magruder-would bow under pressure from investigators and reveal their own involvement in the politi-

The White House published a transcript of his March 17 tee said the White House cut out all references to "matters relating to Watergate." The committee did not release a full transcript of Nixon's June 4 recollections. It gave no reason for this omission.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward and F. Donald Nixon both received payments from their brother's 1968 presidential campaign funds, testimo-ny before the Senate Watergate committee indicates.

The testimony from Herbert account, said:
"The president said that Kalmbach, formerly President Nixon's lawyer and principal fund raiser, shows the Nixon brothers were paid at least $8,000. A source close to the investigation of a $100,000 payment made by billionaire Howard, Hughes to C. G. (Bebe) Rebozo said Thursday the evi-dence was included in the committee's report because of Kalmbach's testimony that Rebozo told him he had paid

Berger Widens Pipeline Probe

(CP) — The judge who will hear a consortium's application to build a natural gas pipeline from the Arctic announced Thursday that the scope of the hearings he conducts will go beyond the actu-al proposals by Canadian Arc-

"To limit the inquiry to an examination of Arctic Gas's proposals merely, without considering the background against which that proposal is made ... would be to nullify the basis on which this inquiwas established," said Mr Justice Thomas Berger.

He made the statement as part of a preliminary ruling on the inquiry.

Mr. Justice Berger said the inquiry must examine the pipeline's effect on the future of northern development, the shape of northern communi ties and the way of life of northern peoples.

It will begin with a general overview of the Mackenzie River Valley, the Mackenzie Delta and the 'northern Yukon, he said.

The initial stages will involve a series of hearings in communities along the Mackenzie Valley, proposed route for the pipeline, to allow resi-dents to make submissions.

"The overview evidence would include such matters as the history, culture and economy of the northern peoples the geography and geological history of the Mackenzie Val-ley, the Delta and the Yukon, the climate, the geotechnical aspects of northern construction, terrain types, including permafrost, and resources, renewable and non-renewa-

Only after this is considered will the hearings begin consideration of the evidence of expert witnesses speaking for Canadian Arctic Gas, the ruling says.

The application to build the pipeline has aroused con-troversy in the North. The In-dian Brotherhood of the Northwest Territories is land through which the pipeline would pass.

Mr. Justice Berger said he will attempt to avoid any undue delays in the hearings. However, he said he does not intend to shorten them because of the expressed by Canadian Arctic Gas that the El Paso Natural Gas Co. might beat them to Alaskan gas.

El Paso is all-American concern while Canadian Arctic Gas is a mixture of Canadian and U.S. interests.

"I will not diminish anyone's right to be heard, nor to improve Arctic Gas's posi-tion in relation to the El Paso proposal in the States," the judge said. the United

A MILLION BUCKS' WORTH OF DREAMS

TORONTO (CP) - What would you do if you won the $1million tax-free Olympic lottery prize next week?

Once the money is in the bank, it starts earning interest. and that is taxable. And inflation immediately begins eating at the value of every dollar. Some Canadians who ought to know how to protect $1 million give this varied advice:

Dr. Morton Shulman, author of Anyone Can Make a Million: I'd buy $1 million worth of land - period.

Alan Eagleson, lawyer for a number of famous sports figures and executive director of the National Hockey League Players Association: Put half into short-term deposits or mortgages and the other half into Canadian bluechip mining

Ron Robertson, tax lawyer at McCarthy and McCarthy and former chairman of the Canadian Tax Foundation: I'd spend about $500,000 on the biggest house you can use, some recreation property of about 20 acres, a good-sized boat — it will hold value and there's no tax on pleasure — and finally with some expert advice I'd get some paintings.

The two-week engagement "an experiment," ing to hotel management. And, just from word of customers have been turned away nightly after the band begins to play at 8.

One fear, voiced by some hotel industry spokesmen, is that beer consumption would go down with people dawdling ver one or two beers just to listen to the music.

But that hasn't happened. "Gallonage has been up this week," the tapman said on Thursday. "I don't know just how much yet, but business has been almost too good."

Another fear was that there would be an increase of under-age drinkers trying to gain admittance to licensed premises with entertainment A hotel spokesman said that

Indian Shelter Approved Despite Fernwood Protest

By PAUL MOSS

Times Staff Several Fernwood-area residents voiced strong opposition Thursday to a rezoning bid that would allow a house at 2124 Chambers Street to be used as an emergency shelter for Indian families.

Disclaiming any trace of racial prejudice, they expressed fears that drunken and unruly elements might disrupt the neighborhood and charged that their property values would go down.

Stingers Survive Thompson Tallies

Brian Thompson, who played with Victoria Shamrocks last season, and Brian Willson each scored three goals for Toronto Wednesday night, but their efforts were not enough to avoid defeat.

The Tomahawks dropped a 10-9 National Lacrosse Association decision to Syracuse Stingers as Gaylord Powless scored the winning goal. former Victoria junior Jerry Kustaski notched one Syracuse tally.

It'll Be the Biggest CORK of All

Competitors from 21 countries will be at Kingston, Ont., Aug. 24-30 for the biggest dinghy event in Canada this year — the Canadian Olympic Training Regatta (CORK).

Locally and in Vancouver, Soling and Flying Dutchman sailors are trying hard to win enough credits to qualify for what promises to be the Biggest CORK on record.

The Allotment Garden: Eat, Share, Check Water

Produce to take home to enjoy is becoming more abundant. When you have a surplus that you cannot use, look around for someone to share it with. They in turn may later have something to share with you. In any case, sharing is one of the pleasant by-products of gardening, whether on allot-ments or in the home garden.

You will not only come across new plants to grow, but ways of growing the old ones, and you will find new

After an hour or two of rain when you think everything is growing well and all you need do is pull or hoe out the weed seedlings, take a small spade or shovel, and dig down the blade's depth between rows, or between plants where sufficient space, to find out how it is down there.

You may be surprised to discover the soil six inches down is dust dry. If it is, and your nearby plants have roots down at that depth, you have the answer to your question "why aren't they growing?"

With surface sprinkling, either by hose, sprinkler, watering can or light rain, roots near the surface will make use of the moisture. If no moisture penetrates more deeply, the deeper roots will be discarded, on there will be none developed there if no moisture has reached below say, the top in of soil all season. Test your soil in several places without endangering roots of any precious plants.

Tomatoes, squash, cucumbers will be deep rooting if moisture is down there. They make so much top growth and so much fruit that their need for soil nutrients in damp soil is constant. Don't lose out by not having a supply of moisture below the surface where it does not need constant replenish-

Carrots, by the nature of their longish roots which are covered with fine hair-like feeding roots, also need a constantly damp soil around them.

Most potatoes on the allotments are looking wonderfully most potatoes of the abouterts are looking wonderfully productive. The wide foliage is in itself a protection against the soil constantly drying, though the moist nature of the tubers demand water to give them their nutritional needs from the sool. If in doubt, test the soil for moisture by digging down between the rows. Then give a thorough slow soak-

I can hardly wait to see the potatoes dug. It's one of the gardening excitements that never becomes old.

The lovely heap of tubers coming from the good soil after planting just one small piece of potato is a thrill every small child should know early in life. The lowly potato at once assumes a new importance. This is the weekend to make good the earlier poor germination of some vegetables. As outlined in last Saturday's (June 6) column, sow dwarf peas and dwarf beans, carrots, beets, swiss chard, winter radish, purple topped rutabaga, green onions, radish, endive. See that the soil is worked fine before sowing, well dampened before and after, and then kept uniformly damp while growth is made.

Don't give up. You'll do better this time because you have the experience of the early summer to guide you.

SOLUTION MONDAY

By FRED KARPIN

The term, "psychic bid-" was coined in 1931 by late Dorothy Rice Sims, the wife of the bridge great, P. Hal Sims. Through the years, the word, "psychic" has stayed with us; and even today it still has the same Sims invented it. Generally speaking, it means "bidding what you don't have, or bluffsion of strength, or to conceal

In the 1930s, just after the birth of psychic bidding, virtually all bridge players indulged in this mania of fabricating bids. But in time the players realized that "psychnot a dividend paver: and they discarded it.

Psychic bids are still made on occasion, even in top-level competition. As Mrs. Sims put it: "The psychic bid is a stab in the dark — the wheels of chance spin around, and the player watches the little ball to discover whether he's been a genius or a fool."

In today's deal, which came up in a tournament, our South player indulged in a psychic bid. After play had ended, he was a sadder and (it is hoped) a wiser man. Neither side vulnerable. North deals.

As is evident, had the final contract been either five clubs would have been made. But it is accepted procedure that when a contract is heading to wards five clubs or five dia monds, one makes every ef fort to channelize the game elsewhere. South's psychic bid of two spades was, of course, an endeavor to do such channeling. But it just wasn't the

Clockwatching Threat to Eskimo Life

(CP) — Modern society is turning Eskimos into "clockwatchers" and that might make them vulnerable to the 24 hour demands of their tough polar environment, says an English physiologist.

Dr. Mary Lobban, of the National Institute for Medical Research in London, says the 9 to 5 working regime that is being thrust on many Eskimos is altering their "cir-cadian rhythms," the physiol-ogical aspects of their bodies that enable them to respond well to their environment at any time of the day or night.

"If Eskimos becomé time dependent, they will be just as vulnerable to the hazards of their environment as whitecomers to the north," said Lobban, who has studied Canadian Eskimos since 1953. This new time dependency means that changes in the social environment of the Eskimos are being accompanied by biological changes in the people themselves, she said in an interview at the Third International Symposium on Circumpolar Health

Isolated Play School Gets Beautiful Junk

Beautiful junk is the way Elizabeth Clement speaks of the bags and boxes of egg cartons, foil pie and tart containers, pill bottles, empty spools, berry baskets, card-boards of all sizes, plastic flowers and other assorted items piled high in a room of her Westall Avenue home.

As a one-woman volunteer corps she started collecting this stuff sometime ago to assist a niece, Frances Wall of Duncan, who is active in play school and kindergarten work with Indian children.

The play school, for tiny tots of around four years of age, was started and staffed in the beginning by Indian mothers anxious that their children be given some sort of head start before they entered

Mrs. Wall supervised the project and, in turn, gave basic training to a group of Indian girls so they could assist. Some of those girls attended night classes at Camosun College in Victoria to

Right from the start, the program for the little ones in-cluded using their imaginations and their hands to make "bits and pieces of this and that."

Those bits and pieces were tossed out on a big table and the only instruction given was "now children, you make something . . . anything you

So well did the Duncan project turn out, about a year ago the Department of Indian Affairs sent to the school a group of young Indian women from Vancouver Island vil-lages where other play schools had by then been started to observe, watch and to learn.

Already they had been given training in child psychology and instruction in things to do for small children, during two intensive courses at Nanaimo.

Talking about things children could do, it was suggested at one point they might cut pictures from magazines to create montages and pictures.

A young Indian girl from Kyuquot shook her head. They during two intensive there, she said.

Alvarez-Welch Medical Report

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ Recently a troubled mother wrote to say that her young daughter had been found to have scoliosis, and now the mother wants to know what the disease is and what it will mean to her daughter's, fu the problems and the treatment of scoliosis can get the November, 1973 issue of Today's Health (published by the American Medical Association, 535 N. Dearborn, Chicago, Ill.). There, Ralph Schoendaughter, Jill, spent eight months wearing a "Mil-waukee brace," which is constructed of metal bars and leather - covered pads, and extends from the chin to the pelvis. Naturally, at first she was very distressed at the thought having to wear such a thing, but in time she was able to be merry about it. When other youngsters stared at her or asked what happened, she would say, "I fell out of a plane, but every-thing's OK now."

Fortunately, when, eight months later, she was able to remove the brace her spine was straight again.

SPACING CHILDREN In 1907 when I began to practice family medicine, I was soon wondering how so many of the women patients I had spaced their children just two years apart. In those days there was no contraceptive pill, no intrauterine coil, and no diaphragm to prevent pregnancy. Some women who wanted to put some space between their children took a douche right after intercourse, but often this did not

When I questioned scores of women who had spaced their children, I found that many had kept nursing their infants for 15 months or so, and such nursing apparently had delayed the return of ovulation and of menstruation.

Now I read a very interesting article on "Studies in Family Planning," published by the Population Council, in which Dr. Jeroen K. Van Ginneken says that there is much evidence that this old method of reducing fertility by pro-longed breastfeeding does seem to work, although not as well as does the pill or the (IUD).

Also the period of protection is not as long — nursing for 18 months, lengthens the period of time before menstruation begins again to an average of 10 or 11 months, or less than a year. Ovulation begins earlier in women who only partially breastfeed their babies, sometimes giving formula from a

Bus-Hydro Strike Threat Averted

Labor Minister Bill King announced today appointment of Clive McKee as industrial enquiry commissioner in a dispute which threatened all B.C. Hydro operations with a strike Monday.

Both sides have agreed to wage increase of 16.8 per cent the appointment and the immediate threat of a strike, which would have grounded Hydro's bus service in Greater Victoria, is over.

Jim Kinnaird, associate eputy minister who held talks with both parties today, said McKee's recommen-dations will be made within 15 days and both sides have agreed to consider them before taking further action.

That means the 3,100 members of Local 378, Office and Technical Employees Union who announced Thursday they will strike all Hydro opportunity to McKee's recommendations.

Some Victoria banks have increased the mortgage interest rate to 11.75 per cent from 11.5 per cent and there are indications it will soon go to 12 per cent.

Toronto-Dominion and Bank of Nova Scotia reported supplies of mortgage money were "adequate" at their new interest level of 11.75 per cent. All other mortgage rates in Victoria are in the range of 11.5 to just over 12 per cent by some trust companies The increase in the mortgage rate comes at a time when prices appear to be stabilizing in the Victoria real estate industry, after a slump in May and early June. See story Page 17.

E. T. M. McBride, manager of the Victoria branch of the Toronto-Dominion, said he expected mortgage rates will rise to 12 per cent or more in the near future. "Recent increases in the in-States means there will have creases in this country keep funds from flowing south," he said. 'The mortgage rate and the prime lending rate will both probably rise to the 12 per cent level." The present prime lending rate at Toronto-Dominion is 11 per cent.

Meanwhile, mortgage loans insured under the National Housing Act continue to go out at 11.5 per cent in Vic-through those hellish years there are about 1,100 remainwere nursing sisters with the Canadian Hong Kong brigade.

Of those 1,100, 600 of the veterans have paid for the years of malnutrition with premature aging, heart and arthritic problems that forced them out of the labor market before their time.

National president Charlie Brady of Montreal said today the HKVA hopes that by this fall the federal government will recognize what the 600 gave up for their country and meet the association's demands that their buddies be given 100 per cent disability

To back up their assertions a massive pile of medical history was given the Canadian pension officials and the standing committee for veterans affairs on May 6, the day the budget which toppled the government was presented.

A MILLION BUCKS' WORTH OF DREAMS

TORONTO (CP) - What would you do if you won the $1million tax-free Olympic lottery prize next week?

Once the money is in the bank, it starts earning interest and that is taxable. And inflation immediately begins eating at the value of every dollar. Some Canadians who ought to know how to protect $1 million give this varied advice:

Dr. Morton Shulman, author of Anyone Can Make a Million: I'd buy $1 million worth of land - period.

Alan Eagleson, lawyer for a number of famous sports fig-ures and executive director of the National Hockey League Players Association: Put half into short-term deposits or mortgages and the other half into Canadian bluechip mining

Ron Robertson, tax lawyer at McCarthy and McCarthy and former chairman of the Canadian Tax Foundation: I'd spend about $500,000 on the biggest house you can use, some recreation property of about 20 acres, a good-sized boat — it will hold value and there's no tax on pleasure - and finally me expert advice I'd get some paintings.

But such contemplated acthat the city itself should not take a stand on the principle of design control.

By doing nothing at all the city was, in effect, "saying that we are content to allow this kind of subterfuge to continue," Young said.

He told council that of the 92 applications processed by the city's Advisory Design Panel between February, Panel 1973, and May this year, 32 or about one-third came from non-architects.

The advice I have from community development department is that there is no way these people are capable of understanding, in many in-stances, the needs the city has on those designs that are put forward," he added.

Sam Bawlf supported the motion as a measure to ensure a higher standard of design for larger residential projects

He said the "assorted seatof-the-pants-type designers" who operate in this field are not subject to the laws governing the architectural pro-fession in B.C., and under no obligation to adhere to com-mitments made to the advisory design panel.

Among the critics of the proposal, Ald. Clyde Savage said the city should not become involved in upholding provincial legislation.

dumped about 1.15 inches of rain on the city Thursday, flooding basements, stores and streets, has blown itself out. While Victoria was by no means dry, it missed the storm which was centred directly over the downtown Nanaimo

A spokesman in the Victoria airport weather office said today there was a possibility of thunderstorms this evening in Nanaimo and perhaps in the Victoria area.

Nanaimo was deluged with rain, hail and lightning, but the airport weather office at Cassidy, only eight miles south of Nanaimo, recorded only light rain.

Lightning hit a power pole just north of the city leaving some residents without electricity. Lightning was also blamed for knocking out the relay switches in traffic lights at the junction of Departure Bay Road and the Island Highway.

PM-3 Salary—$12,629 to $14,350 (Sept. 1974: $13,766 to $15,642) PM-4 Salary—$14,246 to $16,189 (Sept. 1974: $15,528 to $17,646)

> CANADA POST OFFICE OTTAWA. ONTARIO

DUTIES: The incumbents reporting to the Manager, Philatelic and Related Products and Market Development, will be responsible for developing postage, philatelic and related products to offer increased convenience to postage customers, to stimulate an interest in collecting Canadian stamps, and to generally improve the services offered to customers at post office counters across Canada. The incumbents will also initiate market studies, research customer needs, and recommend policy, guidelines and standards for the effective management of all product programmes.

QUALIFICATIONS: The successful candidates must have a comprehensive knowledge of marketing theory and principles, and experience in product development or standards and specifications analysis. The level of knowledge required is normally acquired through university or college graduation in commerce or business administration with specialization in marketing. The distinction between the two levels of positions will be made on the basis of degree and length of related experience, and candidates for PM-4 positions should have supervisory experience.

LANGUAGE REQUIREMENTS: Knowledge of the English and French language is essential for these positions. Unlimited persons may also apply in this competition. They must, however, indicate in writing, their willingness to undertake continuous language training at public expense for a period of up to twelve months. Such training shall be undertaken immediately at the time of conditional appointment, in or through the Public Service Commission's Language Bureau and at locations specified by the Public Service Commission.

Persons continuously employed in the Public Service of Canada since April 6, 1956, who are unilingual, may also apply, whether or not they submit a statement of willingness to undertake language training.

Dayton's Devils (xx), on 13 at 2. Routine 1968 crime-drama about a plot to rob $2\%2 million from an Air Force base, starring Rory Calhoun and Leslie Nielson.

Stanley and Livingston (xxx), on 4 at 2:30. A fascinating, well-made 1939 drama that recounts the efforts of a fearless and dedicated reporter to find a mission missionary in the heart of turn-of-the-century Africa. Excellent performances are turned in by Spencer Tracy, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Sir Cedric Har Walter Brennan.

Snatched, on 6 and 8 at 2:30 No rating available on this 1973 TV crime-drama about three kidnap victims and an unknown mastermind, star-ring some familiar TV faces— Howard Duff, John Saxon, Leslie Neilson, Barbara Par-kins, Sheree North and Robert on 5 at 3:30. A predictable 1965 drama about the romantic escapades of three American girls on-holiday in Spain, starring Ann-Margret, Carol Lynley and Pamela Tiffen with Tony Franciosa and Brian Keith.

The Sun Also Rises (xxx), on 7 at 3:30. Ernest Hemingon 7 at 3:30. Ernest Heming-way's sprawling novel about the drifters and dreamers known as the lost generation during the twenties, is uneven in this 1957 transference to the screen. It does, however, contain some colorful per-formances by Errol Flynn, Tyrone Power and Ava Gardner and some excellent on-location photography in on-location photography

Moss Rose (xxx), on 13 at 8:30. A slow-moving but well-played and interesting Victorian mystery story about a blackmailing chorus girl and an aristocratic family involved in murder. Filmed in 1947 and starring Ethel Barrymore, Victor Mature and Peggy Cummins.

The Story of Ruth (xxx), on 12 at 9. Elena Eden, Stuart Whitman and Tom Tryon star in this 1960 drama based on the Biblical tale of a girl who renounces the worship of pagan gods when she finds the true religion.

Small Town Girl (xx), on 4 at 11:40. A lightweight 1953 musical-comedy about the ro-mantic adventures of a New York playboy in a small town, starring Jane Powell, Farley Granger and Ann Miller.

Maybe I'll Come Home in the Spring (xxx), on 5 at 11:30. A 1971 "generation gap" story about a young runaway's return home from the drug culture, well-played by a good cast that includes Sally Field, Jackie Cooper and Eleanor Parker.

Lafayette Escadrille (x), on 7 at 11:30. A corny, melodramatic 1958 story about an American boy who runs away to France and joins the Foreign Legion, starring Tab Hunter and David Janssen.

President Yalery PARIS Giscard d'Estaing is going all out to give his Government a new style, but part of its impact is lost because France's three television channels have been on strike almost non-stop ever since he took office early this month. Ironically, all three channels are stateowned

The French public has a long yeary experience of trouble with its state-owned elevi-sion. Sudden strikes occur all too often but the recent stoppages are the biggest since the troubled spring of 1968. Over the past few years there have been five official probes to get to the heart of the trouble, but nothing has improved With the arrival of the new President, the system may at last get a thorough overhaul. And in any case a fundamen-tal question can no longer be dodged: Whether or not the state should keep its monopo

Ever since television began to grow 10 years ago, the Gov-ernment has refused to allow any commerical service. Advertising was introduced in 1968 but it is only allowed for six minutes per hour of peak viewing time. The state TV has a captive audience throughout France except for people living near the frontier who can watch television from Beigium, West Ger-many, Luxembourg or Monte Carlo. They are considered lucky. The big complaint against the national programs is that they are mostly dull.

workers; 2,000 of them have taken part in the recent month-long stoppages in a campaign for better wages. But all 17,000 threaten to strike next month if they don't get "satisfaction" from Presiden Giscard. Ironically, what they demand is a guarantee that the state monopoly will continue. The reason? Many of them are established civil servants (and the rest hope to become so) with an interest in keeping their good pay, their job security and their present power to resist change.

A recent debate in the National Assembly showed that the entire television question is a jungle of conflicting inter-ests, wasted talents and confusion. But, needless to say, money is one of the larger roots of the problem. Television's income comes from li-cense fees and from advertising. But last year the ORTF (Office of French Radio and Television) showed a defi-cit of nearly $17 million and another of more than $19 million is forecast for 1974. The taxpayer of course makes up the difference.

President Giscard has daunched an all-out fight for economy and some television workers see him more as an enemy than an arbiter. Besides his Independent Republican Party has favored com-mercial television for years, on the grounds that competition would force the state service to brighten up its programs, to trim the fat off the swollen bureaucracy, and to swollen bureaucracy, and to stimulate talent and initiative. No business firm, said a speaker in the National As-sembly debate, would operate in the bungling way that characterizes the present sys-

Yet the debate also re Yet the debate also revealed a fear of lowering of standards. Many speakers made unfavorable comparisons with countries where "cat-food sellers" are in full control, and few sponsors are willing to risk backing serious

French television makes no bones about having a mission to instruct as well as to entertain. This sometimes results in brilliant programs — such as a series by Commander Jacques Cousteau on under-water life. But more often it leads to boring discussions with total lack of visual interest. Recently, for instance, Queen Elizabeth II visited the Chantilly racecourse to watch her horse Highclere run in the Prix de Diane. The horse won but the camera instantly shifted from an excited and de-lighted Queen to a studio discussion of racing form, utter-ly killing the moment of drama and human interest.

A poll has just revealed that 68 per cent of viewers would like competition from commercial stations. President Pompidou never agreed. He, and Gen. de Gaulle before President him, saw the medium as an extension of government. "In a certain fashion the ORTF is the voice of France," said President Pompidou in a 1973 press conference. Opposition parties point out that what he really meant was the voice of official France. They com-plain they get scandalously little television time, outside election campaigns, to present their views on mat-ters of public interest.

Yet, paradoxically, the left-Yet, paradoxically, the left-wing opposition wants the monopoly to continue. This is part of their general policy favoring nationalization and opposing big būsiness. Others want the ORTH to acquire what a former director, Ar-thur Conte, described as "the moral stature of the BBC." thur Conte, described as "the moral stature of the BBC—that is a voice that is respected but not identified with the voice of government." M. Conte, incidentally, was fired soon after he made that statement, because he complained of direct Government pressure from the Minister of Information

It was not his only complaint. The Vivien report on broadcasting supported his claim that within the organi-zation no fewer than 11 different authorities "controlled" the finances, as well as five outside organizations, including the Ministry of Information and the Finance Ministry.

That brings the question back to President Giscard, who was Minister of Finance for 10 years. As President he will make the final decision, at the risk of pleasing nobody. Everyone favors economy and reform, but Gaullists, Socialists and Communists all oppose "going commercial." Giscard himself has shown Giscard himself has shown some signs of favoring a commercial channel with Government control. "In any case, something must change," commented my French neighbor this week, "We have watched the present Castle of Shadaws long around?" Shadows long enough."

For two years Danny has occupied that time slot as co-host, with announcer Warren Davis, of the Saturday version of This Country in the Morning. But the new show promises to be quite different, though it will retain the highly individual stamp of Danny. Unlike This Country, it is not a current affairs show. It will be produced by Herb Johnson of the CBC Radio variety department, and so its content will have a high entertainment value. ment value.

The two hours will consist of interviews with a variety of interviews with a variety of interesting guests, show-business and sports items, comedy segments, and regular record, movie and book reviews by experts in those fields.

The music content will be exclusively Canadian, made up of CBC broadcast recordings, music recorded especially for the show, and specials produced by the variety-department.

Appearing on a more or less regular basis will be Joe-Fanne, (remembered from This Country), with his cutlandish opinions on just about everything.

Advertisers Urged To 'Think Safety'

By DAVID NAGY

WASHINGTON — On the TV screen, a child reaches into a microwave oven for a hot dog. A motorcyclist roars along with a case of beer in tow. A stunt driver goes wild in a new car.

Citing examples like these, a panel of advertising experts said in a recent study that TV ads can lead children and adults who take risks into dangerous misuse of products careless power of sugges-

If urged advertisers and ad agencies to start "thinking safety" by anticipating the danger even safe products can have if the sales pitch unwittingly suggests misuse, or dramatizes them in such a way as to lead impressionable viewers to misuse them

"Advertising can do more than it is now doing to safeguard the users of advertised products without impairing its ability to merchandise those products effectively," the study panel of the national advertising review board said in a report released in Washington and New York?

"The number one problem is the 'inadvertant safety error,' the unsafe situation in error,' the unsafe situation in which the product is presented rather than the claims made for the product itself...' "Advertisers and agencies do not always recognize that some consumers are particularly vulnerable to suggestion or have limited conscities for or have limited capacities for or have limited capacities for judging risks."

It stressed children fore-most in the "vulnerable" cat-egory, but also said some ads — and especially those that sell fast, powerful cars — can lead impressionable adults "to commit themselves to hazardous situations which ... they cannot manage."

Among its recommendations, the panel urged advertisers and agencies to create ads "with consumer safety in mind" from the beginning. It said they should set up ,safety-in-advertising review panels, whose mem-bership "should include people who are parents of young

The study reviewed poten-tial safety hazards in familiar advertisements of many types of products, from appliances and autos to medicines and toys, and recommended cor-rective dos and don'ts. Some and recommended cor-

Citing several examples of auto and auto accessory ads that stress the speed. power or endurance, the panel says "advertisers should avoid presentations keyed to risk-taking or performance under circumstances that might give the consumer pre-disposed toward risk-taking more confidence in his own car or motorcycle than would be realistic."

Humor Won't Sell Product

TORONTO ing television commercials may win awards and make viewers laugh but they seldom make the cash register ring, says David Ogilvy, chairman of Ogilvy and Mather International Inc.

When a housewife is walking about a supermarket and buying products in an infla-tionary period she's not in a joking mood."

The one-time Paris chef and reseracher for the Gallup Poll started an advertising firm 26 years ago and now heads the seventh largest ad agency in the world.

During a recent visit to the Toronto Ogilvy and Mather operation, he had some criticism of the advertising busi

The purpose of the TV program is to entertain. The purpose of the commercial is to sell. Don't mix them up."

Advertising need not be de-void of a certain amount of charm, he said, as long as it is not achieved at the expense

The advertising industry appeals to the public with gimmicks rather than facts, Mr. Ogilvy said.

"I'm a consumerist myself.

If I'm going to buy an automobile and spend a lof of money, I want some facts about that automobile. Most automobile ads have no facts, so I have to turn to a consumer magazine.

Booming Ad Centre In B.C.

VANCOLIVER - Television producers for years have been flying to British Columbia to film winter commercials in the summer and summer scenes in the winter.

Canawest Film Productions Ltd. has been making films here since before 1967. Andy Anderson, a vice-president, said the company grossed $750,000 for the last 12 months, compared with about $200,000 for 1967, its first year of operation

The $750,000 represents about 60 commercials and nine industrial documentaries.

Don McLean, a partner in Canadian Cinegraph B.C. Ltd., moved here from Toronto. Since last July he has grossed $250,000 in television

Mr. McLean said business is increasing in Vancouver be-cause companies with head offices here are starting to use local advertising agen-cies, who in turn are using local film makers.

The costs of a commercial or an industrial documentary vary widely. Peter Reusch, of Peter Reusch Pictures Ltd., who has been working here since November, 1973, said he has done 30-second commeramounts between $2,000 and $40,000.

"In the area around Vancouver you can get almost any kind of terrain you want, said Mr. Anderson. "Within a few hours of the city you can have ocean, mountains; snow, desert, summer in the winter, anything

He also said the shooting season is longer here than anywhere else in Canada.

A clear day here in February gives a season-less look to the background and the com-mercial can be run in the spring and summer without any trouble."

Vancouver Aquarium Hosts TV Series

The wonderful world of the aquarium is brought to CBC-TV as Vancouver Public Aquarium's curator Dr. Murray Newman and CBC host Bob Switzer team to introduce viewers to residents of the deep blue sea.

Aquarium is telecast on CBC-TV Fridays at 5 p.m.

The programs are being produced within the context of produced within the context of the excitement Vancouverites feel for their aquarium. Ever since the days of the first whale in captivity (Moby Dick, later named Moby Doll), the residents of B.C.'s lower mainland have given great encouragement and sup-port to their undersea exhibit.

Another reason that ac-counts for the Vancouver Public Aquarium's renown is that it is situated in one of the last unspoiled marine areas in the world with a still extensive amount of marine life, life that is held precious by many of the local people.

The aquarium itself is situated close to the shores of the downtown forest of Stanley Park and has gulls flying a overhead and beyond ships riding at anchor out in the inlet and bay. It is one of the great beauty sports of this

Subjects in 'the 12 half-hour programs in the Aquarium series will include friends, the sea otters, beluga whales, tur-tles, lizards, killer whales, dolphins, groundfish and Programs will allow the viewer to take part in some of viewer to take part in some of the aquarium's education pro-grams. One of the shows will accompany Dr. Newman and a Grade VI class on a collect-ing trip to the west coast of Vancouver Island.

A Raisin in the Sun (xxxx), on 7 at 3:30. (Part 1) A flawless 1961 film adaptation of the critically-acclaimed Broadway play (written by the late Lorraine Hansberry) about a black family attempting to break away from their crowded Chizago apartment by moving into an all-white neighborhood. The performances are excellent, especially those of Sidney Poitier, Ruby Dee and Claudia McNeil. (Conclusion tomorrow, same time and channel.)

Silent Running (xxx), on 8 at 8. An unusual and well-made 1972 science fiction drama set in a future era when the defoliated Earth maintains it's only plant life in three giant greenhouses floating in outer space. Overseeing the project is a dedicated botanist-astronaut who defies the government directive to destroy the gardens. This movie was designed and directed by Douglas Trumbull, who created some Oscarwinning special effects for 2001: A Space Odyssey.

Filmed on-location in Vancouver, B.C., this 'unpreviewed Canadian-made 1972 movie offers a comic satire on one man's attempt to regain the ethnic associations he shunned while striving to make his mark in the business world. An all-Canadian cast includes Henry Ramer, Frances Hyland, Roger Dressler and Pia Shandel.

The Way West (xx), on 5 at 9. A fine novel by A. B. Guthrie Jr., has been turned into this hackneyed, disappointing 1967 saga of a wagon train on the great trek to Oregon in the 1840s. A good cast (Kirk Douglas, Robert Mitchum and Richard Widmark) helps a fittle but not enough to make this the western classic it could have been.

One day I got a call from a New York police captain who told me there was no record of a Lou Farragher in the department. I asked Armus to check on him—after all there are 30,000 policemen on the force.

"I'd already begun to worry about Farragher because he about rarragner occause ne contradicted something Armus had told me. It was a minor point but Farragher said the regulations had been changed. Armus told me he was full of baloney.

Rapf sent Farragher packing. Fortunately, at no time were there any glaring technical errors in the show. The NYPD was not depicted wearing polka dot uniforms, laying the rubber hose to old ladies or accepting bribes from the underworld.

"Farragher never gave us a bum steer," Rapf concluded with a sigh. "But I don't want to go through anything like that again.'
